number of debts confronting us. Through the help of God we have been able to cancel all of them, and have remained the paragon, by repairing and painting in both inside and out. The last repair work was done on the church, all of the woodwork of the church is painted white, except the windows, the lower part of which is painted pale blue. This adds much to the appearance of the church. The work is all paid for about $123.50. We have also added about 5 members to the church.
My instruction to my members is to pay off the principal as soon as possible by so doing, they save money. I think every minister should make full proof of his ministry, by teaching his people to be honest in all of their dealings and to pay all their debts, because if the church is to be the spiritual leader, it should also lead along business lines. In some places you go, if you should ask for a donation, or credit for the church, some of the business men of the town will tell you that the church owes them and will not pay. My dear Christian friends, this should not be true of the church, but it is. Let us be bright and shining lights along all lines. Then, and not until then, will the church take its place in the world. Let us be true and God may hasten the time, when our lives may mean more than our words. Yours for the cause of Christ—S. B. Anderson, pastor, St. John A. M. E. Church, Jackson, Mo.

THE MOB VS. THE LAW

There are two very vital questions confronting the American people in this country today, which should demand the attention of the best thinking people, to the end that they should rise in their righteous indignation and call a HALT. The mob spirit breeds contempt for law and order. Laxity in enforcing the law always encourages the violator.

Human nature rebels against law and order. On account of the fact that man to man is so unjust, we have found it necessary to fill our statutory books to overflowing with legislation called law. Law is divine in its nature, in that it is no respecter of persons. It is strong and powerful when it is enforced, but weak and contemptible when neglected.

The mob watches the law, and is always ready to attack it whenever and wherever it shows weakness. Those who form mobs have seen for a half century that the law is weak so far as Negroes' rights are concerned. They have seen that the constable, the sheriff, the police, the judge and the jury have all fallen before the monster PREJUDICE, when called upon to enforce the law, where both races are involved. Prejudice always overbalances justice in favor of the mob.

During the recent outbreak of mob violence in East St. Louis, the officers of the law and the city officials gave license to the rioters by their partiality in favor of the whites. While the mob was forming, all Negroes seen upon the streets were searched for arms, while the white men were allowed to pass unnoticed. Negro homes were entered, searched, ransacked and looted by officers on pretense that arms might be found therein. All this was done before those who make up the mob. What more assurance should anyone need? The results were certain. Mob triumphs. Law hangs its head in shame.

NEGROES SHOULD RETURN

The recent race riot at East St. Louis has occasioned much discussion, no doubt, throughout this country as to whether the Negroes who fled from the fury of the mob should return to East St. Louis since law and order have been restored.

Of course, there is a division among the Negroes themselves. This calls for careful and logical reasoning on the part of all who are in any way interested. The voluntary acts of those who have left will affect the whole race for generations to come. It will determine whether we, as a race, will voluntarily surrender our rights as American citizens to the cries and whims of the labor unions or any other set of men. Conditions may so develop that any class of citizens may be temporarily driven from their homes, perhaps, by mob violence or other causes, but the brave and true will return to their homes. If we leave permanently, the mobs will have accomplished their purpose. The employers, the state and city officials have guaranteed protection, and have vowed to make East St. Louis a safe place for all law-abiding people. The Negroes should return at once.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

True to himself, true to his God and true to his ideals of American principles, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt could not find the guests of the nation with a two-faced address, at Carnegie Hall, in New York, recently. We dare say that not another man in this great country would have had the courage, foresight and initiative to have said a word about the "beam in our eye" while we were trying to pull the "mote" out of the Russians' eye under like circumstances. He did not stop to coin some new phrase or to sugar-coat the evils of this nation; he simply pulled the cover off in the following language:

"Before we do justice to others it behooves us to do justice within our borders. I refer to the race riots in East St. Louis for which, as far as we can see, there was no provocation and which resulted in such appalling brutality as to leave a stain on the American name. It is our duty to demand that the governmental authorities shall use with ruthless severity every power at their command to punish those guilty of murder, whether committed by whites against blacks or whether by blacks against whites. It is our duty to insist first of all on the restoration of order and the reign of law. Upon the foundation of law and order we must build the structure of justice."

The Colonel is to be congratulated by all fair-minded people. We need a few more strong and courageous men who will tell the truth and speak for right and justice.

CHURCHES

ALL SAINTS CHURCH NEWS

The theme of the Rev. C. E. Arthur's sermon last Sunday morning was "Masthead." In the course of his sermon he struck some telling blows at the East St. Louis mob and condemned it in no uncertain terms. He will preach at 11 a. m. this Sunday, and as there is no night service a large congregation should be present to hear this eloquent divine.

The picnic, last Wednesday, was very enjoyable, although not so largely attended as usual.

The district visitors will give an entertainment at the residence of Mr. E. H. Klug, 403 1/2 West Belle Place, Thursday, July 26.

METROPOLITAN NOTES

Last Sunday was another record breaker at the Metropolitan A. M. E. Zion Church.

The re-organization of the church Tuesday night met the hearty approval of all. There was not a single opposition to a single man or woman nominated by the pastor for office. The church is in better shape than it has been since the pastoring of Dr. Shaw.

The Sunday school picnic of July 25th was a success. Dr. Shaw presided over the morning. All welcome.

MT. OLIVE BAPTIST CHURCH

1429 N. 12th St.

Despite the torrid heat on last Sunday, there was an enormous crowd at every service of the day.

Dr. Morris preached from the subject, "Strive ye to enter in at the straight gate," Luke 13:24, at the 11 o'clock service. The three o'clock service was a potent one.

We were blessed with fifteen new members on Sunday night, some refugees and others for baptism. Holy communion was administered by the pastor at the close of a wonderful and perfect day. The Sunday school picnic will be July 19th, at O'Fallon park. All are invited.

TABERNACLE BAPTIST CHURCH

The services at Tabernacle Baptist Church were enjoyed by all present. Quite a few helped with the refuge work, assisting the homelies of East St. Louis. Mrs. Bessie Page's auto was used by the need of the city, free of charge. Deacon Tom Baker died last Monday. Funeral services will be from Tabernacle Baptist Church Sunday July 15. Rev. Moseley left last Monday to attend the Convention of Western Star, but will return for Brother Baker's funeral.

Our Stop In Luncheon has moved from 4004 Finney Ave. to 3097 Fairfax Ave. A fish fry will be given July 12, from 5:00 to 11:00 p. m. Elder J. H. Anderson, Pastor.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY TO SEVEN CHURCH UNION

The women's rally last Sunday afternoon at Temple Ave. Baptist Church was a success. The sermon by Rev. Hall was inspiring and the singing by Mrs. Callie Austin of Madeline Park Church, read a very interesting paper. Sister Hall, the president, presented sister Williams, one of the sufferers of the East St. Louis riot, and a collection was taken for her. Some very encouraging remarks were made by Sister S. J. Patterson, president of the Antioch Association, followed by Sister Williams. The regular meeting of the sisters, will be held at Temple Baptist Church, Friday and Saturday, July 15th at 2:30 p. m. We extend to Baptist sisterhood, to come out and join us. Collection $29.30. The Banking Committee banked $24.00. We expect to be able in the future to care for our poor and needy, and we are praying for you to multiply our account. Mrs. A. M. Hall, pres. Mrs. H. Coker, secy.

ST. PAUL A. M. E. CHURCH

Sunday was a gloomy day all over the country not only with the colored people but with the whites as well. There was much sorrow from the recent occurrence in East St. Louis. The loved pastor knowing the situation, prepared his sermon accordingly taking for his text St. Luke 12th chapter and 7th verse where it speaks of God caring for the sparrow. Notwithstanding the dark gloom through which we are forced to travel, his sermon was a panacea to all present. We could not see that the pastor felt the horrible massacre very deeply, but his advice to place him and his loved ones towards revenge. He urged his hearers to refuse all harsh and unjust criticism, to accuse accusations by clean, clear Christian living. He also laid special stress on the way out of the East St. Louis were being cared for by the B. O. Society and the good white people of St. Louis. The audience was moved to tears as Dr. Johnson would portray the outrage he saw on our people and then in turn would say that he had no reward that awaited the true and the faithful, so much so until we were reminded of the words of a great writer, who said: "Not to the strong is the battle, nor to the swift is the race, but to the true and the faithful victory is procured through grace." Hear Dr. Johnson Sunday morning. Strangers always welcome.

HELLO! YES MA'AM

I want to say to all well thinking Colored people, members of the race in whom I have been interested for thirty-seven years; every dollar that you take to a white man, when there is some Colored man in the same business should remind you of the East St. Louis riot. You should ask yourself "I am not so sharpening another sword to cut off your own head. I appeal not to the uneducated but the educated Negroes, those whom we have placed in front as leaders.

We have about reached the crisis in our humiliated career. It is now time to bury all malice, envy and evil thoughts against each other and band together for our mutual protection. Can you show me where a dollar spent with a white man could circulate your way? He does not have to come to your saloon, buy your groceries, eat in your restaurants, patronize your undertakers or professional men. He visits your churches only when he is running for office and would not ride with you on the street car if he could help himself. Yes, we are as far from each other as the north pole is from the south. It is time to meet together, rather than a half century of bitter experience are sufficient to open our eyes forever.

After all, I want to thank my patrons for $2,500 worth of cash and installment business for the month of June. Anyone in the market for a plane or talking machine, I will gladly let you have one. I have more than a half century of bitter experience are sufficient to open our eyes forever.

The Maelstrom of Public Opinion

By Albert J. Beveridge
Former United States Senator from Indiana

Occasions arise where words of clear-headed, far-seeing guidance from men of knowledge and judgment would be helpful to all of us. We might look for this from prominent men who ought always to be publicists. But in our inconsiderate haste we insist on immediate declarations of opinion from those whom we are accustomed to follow. Not only must their views be given instantly, but they must also be sharp and decided.

Those who should be the leaders of public thought too frequently become panderers to public impatience. They are too often competitors for publicity. They strive to get on the front page of the first edition of the newspapers. To do this, speeches and interviews even on the gravest and most complicated questions are prepared with frantic precipitancy and in lurid language. That necessary delay required by gathering and mastering data and carefully working out the problem which it presents would make out of the date the publication of the conclusions thus formed; while cool and balanced language would lack that sting and eccentricity at present so attractive to our taste. We require that the outpourings of our public men shall be full of "pép" and "punch" otherwise they are rejected by a public palate which has become accustomed to high seasoning.

Thus our public discussion is peculiarly heated, spasmodic and charged with error. Instead of a full statement of facts, they are often given only in part and with prejudicial ardor. Extraneous catchwords more and more frequently take the place of careful reasoning; and explosive epithet rather than clear argument is made the weapon of serious controversy. So it is that public opinion, lashed by inconstant winds, whirled in eddies, now about this point and now about that, instead of flowing in full and constant current.

The papers of the statement of our formative period, and indeed of the more powerful ones down to recent times, when compared with many produced today, disclose the change in the manner of thinking of public men and their expression of it. Those of recent years appear to be immature, hastily prepared and overemphasized when read in parallel with those of our early and middle history.

Yet those calmer and simpler papers dealt with problems as weighty as any that ever confronted the mind of man, and were written at times when popular passions raged ungenerously. The others discussed questions no greater and appeared at times no more perilous. They indicated that we have indeed acquired the harmless "punch" of extravagance, but have lost the deadly "punch" of moderation. In gaining velocity we seem to have impaired our sense of direction.

Many Persons Fail Because They Lack Traits of the Bulldog

By Rev. F. W. Brown of Chicago

The bulldog is "not much for beauty," but he knows how to shut his jaw. He does not have many requests for his portrait, but he knows the art of hanging on. There are plenty of people in this world who ought to go to school to this teacher.

Many a man fails, not from lack of opportunity, or from lack of ability, but from lack of courage and persistence. Many people begin an enterprise with great enthusiasm, but they get tired before it is three weeks old. Their need is not more talent, but more will; not larger gifts, but more determination.

The church has too many feeble folk who lack the quality of persistence. They are good, but weak. They have noble impulses, but they do not follow them. They have high ideals, but for lack of resolution they never put them into practice.

OBITUARY

With sad hearts we chronicle the death of Geo. W. Porter who was called to give an account of the deeds done in the body June 29, 1917. Mr. Porter had been ill about eleven months with an affection of the kidneys, and while at times his condition gave hope of recovery, it was not to be, and the immortal spirit struggling to be free, burst its bonds of clay and ascended to its maker.

Geo. W. Porter was born at Lancaster, R. C., July 8, 1863; he had resided in St. Louis about 25 years. He had a large circle of friends, who lived in for his strong character, broad charity and splendid ability. He was married in 1894, to Miss Lavina E. Stewart, who died in 1903. He was a member of Quinn Chapel A. M. E. Church, and for years was identified with the Masonic Order, being a Past Master of the Alexander Melroe Lodge No. 3, and District Deputy Grand Master of the 3rd degree. He was united in matrimony to Miss Lennie C. Russ of Farmington, Iowa, in 1913 who survives him.

The loving wife, relatives and friends who mourn the separation, should remember that their loss is his eternal gain, that becoming tired, he laid his burden down, and went to his reward.

"The dead do not weep, hearts of dust do not break," he is at rest. Let us therefore enjoy the divine command "Mourn not, but love and accept the consolation left." P. C. V.

The hostess wore a white granite chalice dress of an exquisite pattern and her daughter, Mrs. F. Ambuster, leader of the Crystal Society, was gowned in a beautiful creation of lace net over pink silk. Mrs. R. Anderson, who assisted in introducing the white net gown, piped with medallions.

OBITUARY

With sad hearts we chronicle the death of Geo. W. Porter who was called to give an account of the deeds done in the body June 29, 1917. Mr. Porter had been ill about eleven months with an affection of the kidneys, and while at times his condition gave hope of recovery, it was not to be, and the immortal spirit struggling to be free, burst its bonds of clay and ascended to its maker.

Geo. W. Porter was born at Lancaster, R. C., July 8, 1863; he had resided in St. Louis about 25 years. He had a large circle of friends, who lived in for his strong character, broad charity and splendid ability. He was married in 1894, to Miss Lavinia E. Stewart, who died in 1903. He was a member of Quinn Chapel A. M. E. Church, and for years was identified with the Masonic Order, being a Past Master of the Alexander Melroe Lodge No. 3, and District Deputy Grand Master of the 3rd degree. He was united in matrimony to Miss Lennie C. Russ of Farmington, Iowa, in 1913 who survives him.

The loving wife, relatives and friends who mourn the separation, should remember that their loss is his eternal gain, that becoming tired he hid his burden down, and went to his reward. "The dead do not weep, hearts of dust do not break," he is at rest. Let us therefore enjoy the divine command "Mourn not, but love and accept the consolation of P. C. V."

THEATRES

ARCHIE AND WALTER JONES
FEATURE BOOKER WASHINGTON SHOW.

Archie and Walter Jones are featuring the bill at the Booker Washington Theatre this week. This team is playing a return engagement and opened Monday night with a new act, but were compelled, by popular demand to repeat their previous big hit "The Migrants."
The act is most timely as it harmonizes with the thousands of cases affected by the recent East St. Louis riot. The work of these performers is entirely original and their comedy lines draw a continuous round of applause.
Their opening descriptive song is making as big a hit as when first presented and their closing "In The Jail House Now," is going bigger. The act ranks with the best that has appeared here.
Miss Anna Holt, a truly sweet singer, is presenting three good song numbers, "Four Butterflies," "Loving Monday" and "I'll Give You Sweet Heart." She also gives a few monolog narratives that are humorous and original. Her work is of a high class and is well received.

Two other acts on the bill are Green and Bailey, McNeil and McNeil.
Both are mixed teams and their acts are made up of songs, dances and comic conversations.

NEXT WEEK.

The bill at the Booker Washington Theatre next week will include Elsie Harrow, a female singer; Van Clay and Brown, a sister team; House and House, a mixed team of comedy prevaricators and Douvrezor and Douvrezor, a mixed singing and dancing team. The third series of Official War Pictures will be shown on Wednesday night.

The untiring for the benefit of the East St. Louis refugees last Saturday afternoon at the R. W. was a big arrangement and financial success. All acts playing at the theatre last week contributed the regular program was the addition of Henri Bowman who appeared in a special with Beanie La Belle. A supplementary program consisted of exercises exhibitions by Jack Mitchell, colored waltzer waltz champion of the world; Walter Farrington in a piano solo; and complete programs by the singers and orchestra of the following: Cabaret, Moody's Mills, and Collins. The total amount raised and turned over to the N. A. A.
C. P. by Mr. Turpin was $589.94, made up as follows:

The biggest and best attraction that has ever played at the Booker Washington Theatre is booked for two weeks, date the Drake-Walker Company is playing with company of 17 individuals, their own band and orchestra. Mr.

Turpin will be at the biggest expense in bringing this large company of performers here ever viewed during the existence of the theatre. The show is said to rival any of the large road companies of the past.

er Washington Theatre, or I will call

HARRY CARTER

Another series of thrills in the photo play line will start at the Booker Washington Theatre, Monday July 30, when the first episode of "The Grey Ghost" will be shown.

This play is taken from the famous Saturday Evening Post serial story, "The Grey Ghost." It is full of thrilling situations, gripping scenes, marvelous action of extraordinary swiftness, and pinches galore. Its startling scenes and intensely dramatic incidents lead up to a tremendous climax, that holds the audience spellbound.

Mr. Turpin expects the new serial to be as popular as "The Voice On The Wire," which is breaking all records.

Making Eggs Count.

It is not such a hard job to market eggs so that one gets the best prices and so that none of the eggs spoil. One poultry raiser offers these simple precautions for improving the egg crop:

1. Confine or sell all roosters after May 15. The rooster makes eggs fertile, but ruins them.
2. Provide plenty of roomy, clean, well-littered nests. Dirty dirty eggs carry dirt and dirt eggs spoil quickly.
You need a nest for every five or six hens.
3. Gather the eggs twice a day during warm weather.
4. Put your eggs in a good serviceable box equipped with sound, clean filters, and fast. Keep them in a cool cellar or milk room until you take them to town.
5. Market your eggs at least once a week, and often if you have enough to make it practical.
6. Use dirty, wash-shed and misshapen eggs at home. They are all right if used right away, but are hard to handle on the way to the consumer.
7. If possible, sell to a buyer who pays more for good than for bad eggs.

Half of the Women Will Be Supporting Themselves in 1940, Pastor's Prediction

Rev. Dr. Waldo Amos of Hoboken, N. J., predicts that by 1940 half the women in the country will be self-supporting, and that marriage will gradually decrease in number.

"It is a startling fact that young women are not marrying today," he said, according to the New York Evening Journal. "Hundreds of thousands are going into business. The supreme mission of women in life should be to become mothers and to make homes.
The objection that many have to being married is that they become dependents."

Dr. Amos said that all through New England there are many villages which are known as "she villages."
The men have left for the large cities in the hope of gaining wealth.

"Men are largely responsible for the failure of women to marry," he said.
"Many men are too busy making money to marry, or refuse to marry on small salaries. This has forced women into business."
Statistics show that in 1900 one out of every five women was self-supporting. By 1925 one out of every three, and by 1940, one out of every two will be self-supporting.

Mother's Cook Book.

Mushrooms.
The amateur may learn a few of the common edible kinds of mushrooms, and savoring by them will be perfectly safe. No silver spoon or other success test should be relied upon. The puff-ball, which is so often found in woody places and grows to a large size, is a kind which never should be feared. Peel the ball and slice it in thin slices.
Often one puffball will weigh several pounds and will furnish food for several families.

Broiled Mushrooms.
Peel the mushroom and take out the stem. If it is the kind with gills. Butter the broiler and lay in the caps, gills upward. Drop a bit of butter into each cap, sprinkle with salt and pepper and broil delicately until the butter has melted into the flesh of the mushroom.
Serve immediately on hot buttered toast.

A few mushrooms fried in a little butter and cream makes a delicious meal. Mushrooms also are an addition to sweet-breads and, cooked and chilled, may be added to salad with good results.

Mushroom Soup.
Wash and dry a pound and a half of mushrooms. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan; add one sliced onion and the mushrooms. Fry for five minutes; take out 12 of the smallest mushrooms and set aside. Add three plates of water to the contents of the saucepan, one blade of mace and salt and pepper to season. Let cook slowly until the mushrooms are tender, then rub them through a sieve and add to the saucepan; add the small reserved mushrooms, together with two tablespoonfuls of mushroom catsup. Mix a tablespoonful of cream with one of milk and let cook gently for five minutes. Warm a cupful of cream, put in the soup tureen and add the soup.
Serve very hot.

Escaloped Mushrooms.
Put mushrooms in a buttered baking dish with alternate layers of buttered crumbs, seasonings and layers of mushrooms. Cover with butter, salt and pepper and a gilt of cream. Bake 30 minutes, keeping covered while in the oven.

Baked Mushrooms.
Prepare the mushrooms as for broil-ing. Spread slices of bread with butter, then cover each slice with mushrooms. Put the mushrooms in a hot oven for five minutes, then draw out and season each mushroom with butter, pepper and salt. Push the pan back into the oven until the mushrooms are tender. Serve on the bread, which should be delicately browned.
